CBCD played a significant role in organizing and funding the "International Conference on Crossroad of Biodiversity, Biotechnology, and Health to Enhance Sustainable Development," held in Bali, Indonesia, from May 16-17, 2023. The event featured seven invited speakers from the United States and two graduate students from Rutgers who led a post-conference workshop on plant field collection, documentation, and activity testing. All US, Indonesian, and Tajik Principal Investigators (PIs) attended the conference. It also marked the graduation ceremony for eight Indonesian trainees. Additionally, the event was attended by one Tajik trainee and the Tajik Co-PI, Prof. Saidbek Satorov. The conference received extensive coverage in the Indonesian press and on television. During the event, CBCD leaders held informal discussions to review the program's challenges and successes and to strategize for the future.
