The 2nd International Conference on Natural Products and Chronic Diseases 2024 was held in Jakarta on October 30-31, bringing together leading experts, researchers, and practitioners to explore innovations and address challenges in utilizing natural products for managing chronic diseases. Building on the success of the inaugural conference in 2022, this interdisciplinary forum fostered collaboration and facilitated the exchange of knowledge to promote sustainable health solutions.

The conference featured a dynamic program, including keynote addresses, panel discussions, and interactive workshops focused on developing plant-based medicines, integrating traditional knowledge into modern healthcare, and advancing global health initiatives aligned with the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

Emphasizing networking and mentorship, the event aimed to bridge the gap between academia, industry, and policy sectors, ensuring that scientific advancements translate into tangible health benefits. By promoting interdisciplinary engagement, the conference aspired to accelerate progress in chronic disease prevention and treatment while advancing sustainable health practices globally.
